Hudson County Chamber of Commerce

Liberty National Golf Course in Jersey City was the setting last week when the Hudson County Chamber of Commerce held a reception to introduce its new president, Brian Dunlap, to the community.

More than 140 people from the political and business community attended the event to meet Dunlap, who took over leadership of the chamber on July 6. He is the former executive vice president of sales for the Livingston-based CIT Group Inc. and former executive director of the state chapter of Business Executives for National Security.

Liberty National will host the Barclay's 2009 PGA Tournament event August 25-30.

The reception at Liberty National also showcased the site, at 100 Caven Point Road, one of America's premiere golf destinations, which has breathtaking panoramic views of New York City and the Statue of Liberty.

SPEAKING AT the reception is Joe Scott, CEO of LibertyHealth and vice-chair of the Hudson County Chamber of Commerce.

SHARING A LAUGH are Josh Zeide of Liberty National and Peter Mele, PGA host of the chamber reception.
